INDIRECT PURCHASERS' SECOND AMENDED CLASS ACTION COMPLAINT

Indirect Purchaser Plaintiffs, Greg Beastrom, Seth Brown, Marjean Coddon, Susan Gomez, Joseph Jasinski, Henry Johs, Joseph Lord, Kirsten Luenz, Gerald & Kathleen Nolan, Kory Pentland, Jonathan Rizzo, Michael Schwartz, Larry Scott, Catherine Wilkinson, Jeffrey S. Williams, Driftwood Hospitality Management as authorized managing agent for the following entities that own/operate, or that formerly owned/operated, hotels in various states, including: (1) Genwood Memphis I, LLC, owner/operator of the Crowne Plaza Memphis, formerly the Wyndham Garden Hotel Memphis, in Memphis, Tennessee; (2) GFII DVI Cardel Doral, LLC, former owner/operator of the Hampton Inn & Suites Doral, in Miami, Florida; (3) Brad-Sum Colorado Springs, LLC, former owner/operator of the Summerfield Suites Colorado Springs, formerly the Bradford Homesuites Colorado Springs, in Colorado Springs, Colorado; (4) GFII DVI Cardel Sawgrass, LLC, owner/operator of the Crowne Plaza at Sawgrass, in Sunrise, Florida; (5) GFII DVI Cardel Colorado Springs, LLC, formerly Brad-Sum Centennial, LLC, owner/operator of the Staybridge Suites Denver Tech Center, formerly the Bradford Homesuites Centennial, in Centennial, Colorado; (6) DHM Chicago Hotel LP and DHM Chicago Hotel Lessee LP, owner and operator, respectively, of the Avenue Crowne Plaza Chicago Downtown, formerly The Avenue Chicago, formerly Radisson Chicago, in Chicago, Illinois; (7) DVI Kauai Hotel, LLC, owner and operator of the Radisson Kauai Beach Resort in Lihue, Hawaii; and (8)

DHM Minneapolis Hotel, LLC, owner and operator of the Crowne Plaza North in Brooklyn Center, Minnesota and The Parker Company as authorized agent for the following: Met 2 Hotel LLC; Bachelor Gulch Properties, LLC; MPE Hotel I (Washington), LLC; and New York Hotel Tenant Co., LLC (“Indirect Purchaser Plaintiffs”), individually and on behalf of a class of all those similarly situated, bring this action to recover damages and to obtain injunctive relief for violations of antitrust and consumer protection laws and for unjust enrichment¹ against Defendants The Carpenter Company, Flexible Foam Products, Inc., FXI-Foamex Innovations, Inc., Future Foam, Inc., Hickory Springs Manufacturing Co., Mohawk Industries, Inc., Leggett & Platt, Inc., Scottdel Inc., Woodbridge Foam Corporation, Woodbridge Sales & Engineering, Inc., Woodbridge Foam Fabricating, Inc., and Louis Carson and David Carson (“Defendants”), which are or were operating in the market known as polyurethane foam in the United States between at least 1999 and the present. Except as to those allegations about themselves and their transactions, Indirect Purchaser Plaintiffs make the allegations below upon information and belief and upon the investigation of counsel.

NATURE OF THE ACTION

1. This case arises out of a long-standing (national and international) price-fixing conspiracy among Defendants and their co-conspirators that had the purpose and effect of fixing prices of flexible polyurethane foam and flexible polyurethane foam products (collectively, “flexible polyurethane foam”). As used herein, flexible polyurethane foam refers to slabstock polyurethane foam, which was the focus of the conspiracy alleged herein. Flexible polyurethane foam is a commodity widely used for cushioning and insulation in a variety of goods, including but not limited to furniture, bedding, packaging, and flooring.

2. This lawsuit is brought as a class action on behalf of all entities and persons, exclusive of Defendants and their co-conspirators (and their respective officers, employees, agents, representatives, parent companies, subsidiaries and affiliates), that or who purchased flexible polyurethane foam indirectly from one of more of the Defendants (the “Class”) during the period January 1, 1999 through the present (“the “Class Period”) not for resale.

3. During the Class Period, Defendants and their co-conspirators contracted, combined, or conspired to fix, raise, maintain, and/or stabilize prices and allocate customers for flexible polyurethane foam in the United States, by the means and mechanisms described herein. As set forth in detail below, Defendants’ executives and employees engaged in specific and detailed communications between and among each other to fix prices and allocate customers.

4. During the Class Period, each Plaintiff purchased product(s) containing flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants or their co-conspirators. Defendants manufactured, produced, promoted, sold, marketed and/or distributed polyurethane foam in each of the States identified in this Complaint. As a direct and proximate result of the unlawful conduct and price-fixing conspiracy of Defendants alleged herein, Plaintiffs and the other members of the Class (defined in ¶ 153 below) have paid more during the Class Period for flexible polyurethane foam than they otherwise would have paid in a competitive market and have therefore been injured in their respective businesses and property.

5. Plaintiffs bring this class action lawsuit to recover damages suffered by the Class and the costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys’ fees, and for such other relief as is afforded under the antitrust and consumer protection laws and unjust enrichment claims of the relevant jurisdictions in the United States.

6. Plaintiffs also bring this lawsuit as a class action pursuant to Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26, to enjoin Defendants' anticompetitive conduct and for costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, and for such other relief as is afforded under the antitrust laws of the United States.

PLAINTIFFS

7. Greg Beastrom is a California resident. During the Class Period he purchased, not for resale, mattresses and pad that contain flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The prices Greg Beastrom paid for the products containing flexible polyurethane foam were greater than the prices he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. He has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Beastrom brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

8. Seth Brown is a New York resident. During the class period he purchased, not for resale, a sofa and a mattress that contains flexible polyurethane foam which were supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Seth Brown paid for the products that contain flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. He has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection violations. Brown brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

9. Marjean Coddon is a Tennessee resident. During the class period she purchased, not for resale, a sofa that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Marjean Coddon paid for the product containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price she would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. She has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Coddon brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of herself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

10. Susan Gomez is a Wisconsin resident. During the Class Period, Susan Gomez purchased, not for resale, a mattress that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Susan Gomez paid for the product containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price she would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Susan Gomez has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Gomez brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of herself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

11. Joseph Jasinski is a Wisconsin resident. During the Class Period, he purchased, not for resale, carpet padding made of flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Joseph Jasinski paid for the product containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein.

He has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Jasinski brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

12. Henry Johs is a Tennessee resident. During the Class Period, he purchased, not for resale, mattresses that contain flexible polyurethane foam which were supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The prices Henry Johs paid for the products containing polyurethane foam were greater than the prices he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Henry Johs has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Johs brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

13. Joseph Lord is an Arizona resident. During the Class Period, he purchased, not for resale, a mattress that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Joseph Lord paid for the product containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Joseph Lord has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Lord brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

14. Kirsten Luenz is a Kansas resident. During the Class Period, she purchased, not for resale, two mattresses that contain flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and carpet padding that was made of flexible polyurethane foam from a vendor who purchased the flexible polyurethane foam from Defendant Carpenter Co. and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The prices Kirsten Luenz paid for the products containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the prices she would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Kirsten Luenz has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Luenz brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of herself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

15. Gerald and Kathleen Nolan are Massachusetts residents. During the Class Period, they purchased, not for resale, a pillow that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Gerald and Kathleen Nolan paid for the product containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the prices they would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Gerald and Kathleen Nolan have therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. The Nolans brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of themselves and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

16. Kory Pentland is a Michigan resident. During the Class Period, he purchased, not for resale, two sofas that contain flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The prices Kory Pentland paid for the products containing flexible polyurethane foam were greater than the prices he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Kory Pentland has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Pentland brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

17. Jonathan Rizzo is an Arizona resident. During the Class Period, he purchased, not for resale, a pillowtop mattress that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Jonathan Rizzo paid for the product containing flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Jonathan Rizzo has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Rizzo brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

18. Larry Scott is a West Virginia resident. During the class period he purchased, not for resale, carpet padding that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Larry Scott paid for the product that contains flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. He has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection violations. Scott brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

19. Catherine Wilkinson is a California resident. During the Class Period, she purchased, not for resale, a mattress that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Catherine Wilkinson paid for the product that contains flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price she would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Catherine Wilkinson has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Wilkinson brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of herself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

20. Jeffrey S. Williams is a North Carolina resident. During the Class Period, he purchased, not for resale, a mattress that contains flexible polyurethane foam which was supplied by one or more of the Defendants and suffered injury as a result of Defendants' unlawful conduct. The price Jeffrey S. Williams paid for the product that contains flexible polyurethane foam was greater than the price he would have paid in the absence of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein. Jeffrey S. Williams has therefore been injured by reason of Defendants' antitrust and consumer protection law violations. Williams brings this lawsuit as a class action on behalf of himself and all indirect purchasers who, during the Class Period, purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam manufactured and/or distributed by one or more of the Defendants which resulted in injury.

AGENTS AND CO-CONSPIRATORS

49. The acts alleged against the Defendants in this Complaint were authorized, ordered, or done by their officers, agents, employees, or representatives, while actively engaged in the management and operation of Defendants' businesses or affairs.

50. Various persons, corporations, and entities not named as defendants herein -- including at least A-Z Sponge & Foam Products Ltd. (also known as A to Z Foam), Broadway Foam & Fabric Supplies Ltd. (also known as Broadway Foam), and CMI Enterprises (also known as CMI Automotive) -- may have participated as co-conspirators in the violations alleged herein and may have performed acts and made statements in furtherance thereof.

51. Each Defendant acted as the principal, agent, or joint venturer of, or for, other Defendants with respect to the acts, violations, and common course of conduct alleged by Plaintiffs.

UNNAMED COCONSPIRATORS

52. Other entities with which the Defendants may have possibly conspired or who are connected with the named Defendants and who are on notice and have knowledge of the facts and claims that can or may be alleged against them by virtue of the allegations in the Direct Purchaser Plaintiffs' Consolidated Amended Complaint filed in this Multidistrict Litigation, the investigations of the United States Department of Justice, the Competition Committee of Canada and the United Kingdom and the European Union, include, but are not limited to E.R. Carpenter, L.P. (f/k/a Carpenter Chemical, L.P.) ("E.R. Carpenter"), a Virginia limited partnership with its principal place of business at 5016 Monument Avenue, Richmond, Virginia 23230, Carpenter Holdings, Inc. ("Carpenter Holdings," collectively with Carpenter U.S. and E.R. Upon further investigation and discovery in this case, Plaintiffs may add those entities, and others, as named Defendants to the action.

JURISDICTION AND VENUE

53. Plaintiffs bring this action to obtain injunctive relief arising from Defendants' violations of Section 16 of the Clayton Act (15 U.S.C. § 26) to obtain injunctive relief for violations of Section 1 of the Sherman Act (15 U.S.C. § 1), as there is no indication that aside from the leniency Defendant discussed below, none of the other Defendants has taken any affirmative action to terminate its participation in the price-fixing conspiracy for polyurethane foam under the particular state antitrust and consumer protection statutes alleged herein. Plaintiffs also seek to recover the costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees, and to seek such other relief as is afforded under the state laws asserted herein. The Court has jurisdiction over the federal claim under 28 U.S.C. §§ 1331 and 1337. The Court has supplemental jurisdiction over the state law claims under 28 U.S.C. § 1367 because those claims are so related to the federal claim that they form part of the same case or controversy. The Court also has jurisdiction over the state law claims under 28 U.S.C. § 1332 because the amount in controversy for the Class exceeds $5,000,000, and there are members of the Class who are citizens of a different state than the Defendants.

54. Venue is proper in this District pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 22 and 28 U.S.C. § 1391(b), (c) and (d), because at all times relevant to the Complaint, Defendants resided, transacted business, were or are found, or acted through subsidiaries or agents present in this District.

55. Additionally, a substantial part of the interstate trade and commerce involved and affected by the alleged violations of the antitrust laws was and is carried on in part within this District. The acts complaint of have had, and will have, substantial anti-competitive effects within this District.

56. This Court has in personam jurisdiction over each of the Defendants because, inter alia, each of the Defendants through their activities and acts in furtherance of their conspiracy: (a) committed acts in this District and/or participated in the unlawful conspiracy through persons and entities located in this District, including the fixing prices of flexible polyurethane foam sold to purchasers in this District; (b) transacted business in flexible polyurethane foam and other products in this District; (c) maintained continuous and systemic contacts with this District prior to and during the Class Period; (d) purposefully availed itself of the benefits of doing business in this District. This Court also has jurisdiction over each of the Defendants as the MDL court to which all similar actions have been assigned by the Judicial Panel for Multidistrict Litigation. Accordingly, each of the Defendants maintains minimum contacts with this district more than sufficient to subject it to service of process and sufficient to comply with due process of law.

FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

The Polyurethane Foam Market

57. Flexible polyurethane foam is widely used for its qualities: it is light weight, resilient, quiet, low odor and resistant to mildew and other triggers of common allergies. Flexible polyurethane foam may also be cut. For example, in 2008, over 590,000 metric tons of slabstock flexible polyurethane foam was produced in the U.S.

58. Flexible polyurethane foam is widely used for cushioning, to insulate objects or reduce shock. Specifically, flexible polyurethane foams are used in bedding, packaging, seat cushioning, carpet cushioning, shipping pads and cushioning, car interiors, fluid filtration systems, anti-noise and vibration systems in aircraft, medical devices, and in a number of consumer applications.

59. Flexible polyurethane foam is most often used in bedding and upholstery, while the more rigid variety is used for products, thermal insulation and in automobile dashboards. The four classes of flexible polyurethane foam, all with different physical properties, are created by varying a basic addition polymerization reaction involving a diol or polyol, a diisocyanate, and water.

60. The diisocyanate reacts with the diol or polyol to create the urethane polymer. Water reacts with some of the isocyanate groups to produce carbon dioxide gas, and the bubbles get trapped in the viscous liquid as it polymerizes, expands, and solidifies. Catalysts and surfactants can be added to boost the reactions and control the foaming process. A wide range of other additives, including stabilizers, dyes, fire retardants, and fungicides, may be added to meet specific performance demands. Auxiliary blowing agents, such as hydrofluorocarbons, liquid carbon dioxide, and acetone, are also typically used to prepare the foam. Ultimately, the kinds and amounts of raw materials used in the manufacturing process help determine how the final product performs.

61. To manufacture foam for cushioning, two basic procedures are used. In one, the chemical mix is poured onto a moving conveyor, where it is allowed to react and expand. Sides on the conveyor allow the foam to rise into a “bun” or slab anywhere from two to four feet high. The continuous slab is then cut, stored, and allowed to cure for up to 24 hours. This manufacturing procedure is the “slabstock” production process. The cured foam is subsequently fabricated into useful shapes. Most foam for use in furniture and bedding is produced this way.

62. Although the final revenue figures are not yet available for 2010, domestic revenue for polyurethane foam industry for that year was projected to be approximately $12 billion. Throughout the Class Period, flexible polyurethane foam averaged 39.5% of the total output of polyurethane foam in the United States. In 2008, for instance, flexible polyurethane foam for furniture and bedding accounted for approximately 43% of metric tons of U.S. consumption of flexible polyurethane foam; flexible polyurethane foam for transportation products accounted for approximately 17.5% of flexible polyurethane foam sales revenue; flexible polyurethane foam for flooring products accounted for approximately 33.4% of flexible polyurethane foam sales revenue; and flexible polyurethane foam for other end uses—including but not limited to packaging and textiles—accounted for approximately 6.1% of flexible polyurethane foam sales revenue.

63. Flexible foams have mainly open cells, formed by gas bubbles that have popped. Air can pass through the foam easily, resulting in a soft, resilient, flexible material. In rigid foams, most of the cells stay closed. The material is thus harder and less resilient. Controlling the proportion of open cells to closed cells during the production process is one of the ways that the properties of foam can be manipulated, adding to the material's versatility.

64. There are few acceptable alternatives for flexible polyurethane foam. In furniture and bedding applications, short staple polyester fiber or cotton may be used, but both alternative materials have poor height recovery characteristics after compression. Steel springs also recover well, but must be insulated from the user with some type of cushioning material. According to the Polyurethane Foam Association, a trade association in which the non-individual Defendants are members, "comparing [polyurethane foam] to alternative materials in the areas of economics, comfort potential, ease of use, and durability, there is not an acceptable substitute for polyurethane foam."

65. There has been a recent trend towards consolidation within the industry. Major players within the industry have been active in acquiring smaller companies and other competitors over the course of the last ten years. For example, in 2007, Defendant Carpenter acquired its European competitor, Dumo NV. Carpenter owns approximately 16.3% of the market share in this industry.

66. After its parent corporation was acquired in 2006, Vitafoam, Inc. sold one plant to Olympics Product, LLC, a joint venture between Woodridge and Hickory Springs. It sold another plant to Flexible Foam Products.

67. Defendants alleged here to be participants in the conspiracy are most of the major North American polyurethane foam producers, representing a significant portion of the United States market. There are virtually no imports of products in this industry due to the prohibitive freight costs involved in transporting these bulky, low unit priced products over long distances.

The Conspiracy To Fix Prices For Polyurethane Foam

A. Evidence Of The Conspiracy To Fix Flexible Polyurethane Foam Prices

1) Defendant Vitafoam Admits To The Conspiracy

68. In February 2010, Vitafoam voluntarily approached the U.S. Department of Justice's ("DOJ"), Antitrust Division, to self-report evidence of misconduct amongst itself and other companies and individuals in the industry ("competitors") and to seek acceptance into the Corporate Leniency Program. Since that time, Vitafoam and its employees have been cooperating with the Department of Justice's criminal investigation into illegal anticompetitive conduct in the flexible polyurethane foam market.

69. As a result of its application, Vitafoam has received a conditional leniency letter from the DOJ, which means that Vitafoam admitted to its participation in a conspiracy to violate the U.S. antitrust laws. As a November 19, 2008 presentation available on the DOJ's website at: <http://www.usdoj.gov/atr/public/criminal/239583.pdf> explains, "[a conditional leniency] applicant must admit its participation in a criminal antitrust violation involving price fixing...before it will receive a conditional leniency letter."

70. In seeking conditional leniency with the DOJ and in connection with a pending Canadian government investigation of antitrust violations by manufacturers of flexible polyurethane foam, several current and former Vitafoam employees agreed to be interviewed regarding the flexible polyurethane foam price fixing conspiracy. These interviews revealed the mechanisms, participants, duration, and impact of the conspiracy. These employees described a cartel among Defendants, who are responsible for production of the majority of flexible polyurethane foam, and other co-conspirators.

2) Vitafoam employees explain how Defendants conspired to fix prices and allocate customers

71. Defendants established a practice where they would communicate and reach an agreement or understanding on the percentage amount and timing of price increases and market allocation in the sale and supply of polyurethane foam. Price increase discussions occurred approximately two to three times per year and often coincided with the bi-annual meetings held by the Polyurethane Foam Association (“PFA”).

72. The general pretext used to explain the conspiratorial price increases was increases in raw material costs. Defendants (or “foamers” as they are referred to at times in the industry) utilize chemicals, including polyols and toluene diisocyanate (or “TDI”) in the manufacturing of flexible polyurethane foam. When Defendants’ raw material suppliers announced price increases for chemical ingredients of foam, such as polyols and TDI, Defendants contacted each other because this provided an opportunity to raise prices. Defendants viewed price fixing as necessary because, if Defendants did not increase their foam prices by the same percentage amount and at around the same time period, the attempted price increase would fail.

73. The conspiracy, understanding and agreements regarding price increase percentage amounts among Defendants was the result of telephone conversations, exchanges of price increase letters, face-to-face meetings, and bilateral discussions among the competitors for the purpose of coordinating the amount and timing of price increases.

74. During the Class Period, there was an understanding and agreement among the Defendants and their co-conspirators to collectively support supracompetitive prices. This understanding and agreement was reached in actual discussions among competitors about the percentage of price increases, the dates of the increases, and how the conspirators would announce the increases with the same, or nearly the same, effective dates. Price increase announcement letters were then mailed to customers, reflecting the prices determined by the conspirators. Defendants policed these increases to ensure they were implemented by their coconspirators, and they did not permit price reductions without consent of the overall group.

3) Former Vitafoam executives

75. A former President of Vitafoam, who worked for Vitafoam from the 1960s until October 2008, along with other individuals at Vitafoam, directly participated in the long-running price fixing and customer allocation conspiracy alleged herein relating to flexible polyurethane foam in North America.

76. The former President of Vitafoam together with Defendants engaged in frequent and regular unlawful communications during the Class Period where they discussed and agreed to specific price increases and the timing of announcements regarding the effective date of those increases.

77. Vitafoam had a purported company policy of not having conversations with competitors, but this policy was merely window-dressing and was not followed in practice during the Class Period.

78. As part of the conduct to coordinate and/or support price increases during the Class Period, the former President of Vitafoam instructed his sales people to send copies of their draft price increase letters to other Defendants and obtain other Defendants' versions of the same. Defendants utilized these drafts to confirm their anticompetitive agreements and further implement the conspiracy. The Defendants with whom he spoke also discussed how much each competitor wanted to raise prices, when the price increases should go into effect, and when the price increase letters should be issued. As described below, these measures were used not only to set supracompetitive prices, but also to police the conspiracy and ensure compliance. Vitafoam personnel, including at least Steve Pendock, Gerry Hannah, David Gurley, Frank Roncadin, George Newton, Tim Prescott, and Phil Fonseca, participated in these discussions with other Defendants to share information about and reach agreement on price increases.

79. Vitafoam's discussions relating to coordinating price increases among Defendants during the Class Period were conducted primarily by means of telephone, electronic mail, and in-person meetings. In person discussions frequently took place at Polyurethane Foam Association ("PFA") meetings.

80. The former President of Vitafoam, along with his subordinates, had conspiratorial discussions during the Class Period as described above with other Defendants regarding fixing prices and allocating customers. These discussions included at least Tony Dacosta, Al Zinn, and Doug Dauphin of Foamex; Max Tenpow of Carpenter; Bruce Schneider of Future Foam; Don Coleman of Hickory Springs; and Robert Valle and Dean Brayannis of Valle.

81. A former Vice President of Sales and Marketing for Vitafoam who has worked in the polyurethane foam industry since 1963 participated in interviews and admitted his role in the conspiracy. He first worked for Woodbridge, and then in 1973 joined Vitafoam's predecessor, Pre-Fab Cushioning Products. This former Vice President worked for Vitafoam in Canada until March 2009 when he retired. He was personally involved in a long-running price fixing and customer allocation conspiracy throughout North America along with other individuals at Vitafoam as well as at other companies.

82. The former Vice President of Vitafoam also participated in conspiratorial conduct during the Class Period with many individuals employed by numerous competitors, including at least Valle, Carpenter, Woodbridge, Flexible Foam, Hickory Springs, Domfoam, Scottdel, and Foamex. The communications involved discussions of price increase percentages and effective dates of such increases, typically by telephone. The competitors exchanged copies of price increase letters to coordinate and support these increases. Individuals from competitors with whom the former Vice President conspired to fix prices and allocate customers included at least Stanley Pauley, Ed Malacheck, Mark Kane and Max Tenpow of Carpenter; Tony Vallecoccia, Dean Brayannis and Robert Valle of Valle; Doug Dauphin and Tony Dacosta of Foamex; and John Howard of Domfoam.

83. The former Vice President of Vitafoam and Mark Kane of Carpenter had discussions on multiple occasions during the Class Period involving price increases concerning a shared customer. In an effort to coordinate their price increases and to make sure those increases went through for the mutual customer, the former Vice President and Kane called each other and exchanged copies of draft price increase letters by fax.

84. Robert Valle and Tony Vallecoccia of Valle also communicated with other Defendants by telephone and faxed each other copies of their draft price increase letters that would be sent to customers in order to coordinate and collude on price increase percentages and their effective dates. They reported on these efforts to Vitafoam.

85. Vitafoam employee David Gurley was a manager during the Class Period involved in scrap foam, obtained by Vitafoam for carpet underlay production. During the Class Period, Gurley had numerous contacts with other Defendants in furtherance of the conspiracy. As a result of these contacts, Gurley provided the former Vitafoam executives and co-employee Steve Prescott with other Defendants' draft price increase letters, competitor price lists, and other information.

86. During the Class Period, Vitafoam employee George Newton exchanged information with Carpenter employee Max Tenpow regarding the amount and effective date of price increases. Newton also provided this conspiratorial information to other Defendants.

87. In addition to these unlawful agreements to fix prices, the former Vitafoam executives and Defendants agreed to avoid each other's customers and refrain from taking business or market share from one another during the Class Period.

4) Recent or current Vitafoam executives

88. In addition, a former Woodbridge employee was employed in Ontario, Canada, from 1986 until 2009 and participated in the conspiracy. While working at Defendant Woodbridge, this employee served most recently as Vice President of Commercial Sales where he had authority to determine prices. In April 2009, this former Woodbridge employee became Vitafoam's Vice President of Sales. In his position at Vitafoam, he had authority to determine prices. This Vitafoam Vice President has also admitted to his role in the long-running price fixing and customer allocation conspiracy with other Defendants.

89. This Vitafoam Vice President engaged in conspiratorial activity while employed by Woodbridge and Vitafoam during the Class Period by reaching understandings and agreements on price increases with other Defendants. These agreements concerned both the amount and the effective date of the price increases. The objective of the price increase coordination was for the conspirators to pass on cost increases to customers, as well as to maintain their respective market share.

90. During the Class Period, the Vice President personally engaged in this conspiratorial conduct to fix prices and maintain market share with at least Woodbridge, Vitafoam, Foamex, Carpenter, Future Foam, Hickory Springs, Scottdel, Valle and Flexible Foam. Co-workers at both Woodbridge and Vitafoam also participated in the scheme.

91. Information sworn under oath on July 21, 2010 by Pierre-Yves Guay of the Commissioner of Competition in Canada to support a search warrant describes information provided by “Witness A,” regarding conduct “in Canada and in the United States.” The information states under oath: “Witness describes himself as someone who gathers and shares information across the foam sectors. Witness A confirmed to Competition Law Officers that he had discussions, exchanges of information and agreements regarding the price of foam with the following contacts within the foam industry:

Companies	Contacts	Positions
Foamex	Vinnie A. Bonaddio	Senior Vice President, Technical Products Group
Foamex	Don Phillips	Executive Vice President Automotive Parts Division
Vallefoam	Tony Vallecoccia	President
DomFoam International Inc.	John Howard	President
Ottobock	John Vins	Sales Manager
Plastomer	Bill Baughman	Chief Executive Officer
Inoac International Co.	Mike Cotter	Marketing Manager
Inoac International Co.	Ken Miya	Managing Director
Hickory Springs	Todd Councilman	Marketing – Sales Manager
Flexible Foam Products	Mike Crowell	VP Sales and Marketing
Vita	Mel Himel	President
Hickory Springs	Buster Mann	VP, Eastern Division
CMI Automotive	Jorge Canamero	President

Conduit of information²:

Companies	Contacts	Positions
Bondtex Incorporated	Jerry Hightower	President
Cerex Fabric	Dan Holsenbeck	Sales Manager

² “Conduit of information means that Witness A had discussions with these individuals who reported market conditions and price increases by alleged cartel members to him. These discussions were not about price fixing or market allocation but rather represented simply a transmission of information.”

Inoac USA	Max Ozeki	VP Foam Division
Morbern Inc.	John Weaver	VP Sales and Marketing

92. The sworn affidavit from Pierre-Yves Guay also separately states that it is the result of an investigation of “previous and ongoing conduct contrary to” the Competition Act of Canada by entities including Carpenter, Valle Foam, Domfoam, A to Z Foam, Vita Foam Group, Foamex, Flexible Foam, Future Foam, Mohawk, Scottdel, Broadway Foam, Woodbridge, Leggett & Platt, and Hickory Springs. The violations of law alleged in the affidavit concerned conduct both “in Canada and in the United States.”

93. During the Class Period, while he was employed by Woodbridge, the Vitafoam Vice President also confirmed that he spoke to Bill Lucas, the President of Vitafoam, to discuss price increases specifically for foam applications in the automotive industry. Bill Lucas, also acted for Crest, which was controlled by Vitafoam, in these communications.

94. When Defendants discussed price increases for foam products for the automotive industry, although price increases for automotive foam products generally involved telephone calls, rather than letters, the discussions included price increase letters for foam products. Defendants discussed price increase letters for foam products generally because this helped the competitors coordinate price increases and timing of price increases for automotive foam products.

95. The Vitafoam Vice President, while he was employed by Woodbridge, also had contacts with Vincent Bonaddio at Foamex to discuss price increases for automotive foam products.

96. In 2004, while employed by Woodbridge, the Vitafoam Vice President attended a meeting at Crest with Bill Lucas, who was representing Vitafoam and Crest. During the meeting, there was a discussion regarding price increases of foam.

97. On May 26 & 27, 2010, the current Vice President attended a PFA meeting in Baltimore, MD. While there, he discussed foam pricing with Michael Crowell of Flexible Foam. Crowell asked why Vitafoam was not raising prices or following a recent increase.

98. Another Vitafoam executive, the President, was previously the Director of Corporate Engineering at Woodbridge from 1985 until January 2008, where he had authority to determine prices. As the President of Vitafoam, a position he held beginning in August 2008, he also had authority to determine prices. Along with other individuals from Defendant companies, he participated in the long-running price fixing and customer allocation conspiracy. During the Class Period, discussions with competitors in the foam industry involving the current President of Vitafoam while he was at Woodbridge included conversations about legitimate topics like business development or potential joint ventures, and then ultimately led to conspiratorial conversations about price increases. These discussions about coordinating pricing took place during in-person discussions, electronic mail communications, and telephone conversations.

99. During the Class Period, the President of Vitafoam participated in conspiratorial discussions concerning pricing in the flexible polyurethane foam market with various competitors at both Woodbridge and Vitafoam, including at least Bill Lucas of Vitafoam; Donald Phillips and Vincent Bonaddio of Foamex; Michael Crowell of Flexible Foam; Tony Vallecoccia of Valle; Stanley Pauley of Carpenter; Don Simpson, Buster Mann and Lee Lunsford of Hickory Springs; and, Bruce Schneider and Robert Heller of Future Foam. David Gurley also sent an email to the current President of Vitafoam in which he acknowledged receiving draft price increase letters from competitor Don Simpson of Hickory Springs. These discussions led to a clear understanding and agreement that the participants would discuss and implement coordinated price increases on the same effective dates.

100. Price increases for the carpet cushion segment of the flexible polyurethane foam market occurred again in April and May 2009. Thus, in April 2009, many competitors announced a 12% increase on carpet cushion to be effective May 18, 2009. This price increase was facilitated through exchange of letters amongst the following defendants: Flexible Foam, Mohawk, Carpenter, Vita Canada, Leggett & Platt, and Future Foam. Immediately after the April 2009 increase another 14-15% price increase on bonded carpet cushion was implemented in May 2009.

101. A Vitafoam executive had several communications with Dean Brayianis from Valle leading to an agreement on June 2009 on the promotional pricing for carpet foam for a shared customer. This agreement to offer the same promotional pricing was followed after June 2009. Specifically, each of the price increases for flexible polyurethane foam during the Class Period, going back to at least 1999 and until Vitafoam's entry into the leniency program, were the result of conspiratorial discussions among Defendants on pricing.

5) Defendants implement and enforce the conspiracy

102. Defendants also undertook substantial efforts to police the conspiracy. Participants, including the former Vice President of Vitafoam, followed up after discussions with other Defendants to determine if the specific agreed price increases and effective dates were implemented. If one of the Defendants did not agree to raise prices at the same amount or in the same time period as the other Defendants, the other Defendants would pressure the hold out until it acquiesced.

103. Furthermore, Defendants routinely exchanged and reviewed each other's price increase letters in order to confirm that their conspiratorial agreements were being implemented. When a Defendant would fail to exchange or confirm its price increase letters, the other Defendants would hound that Defendant and threaten action to engage in competitive price wars against the non-cooperating Defendant.

104. On April 9, 2010, in Cleveland, Ohio, Bruce Schneider of Future Foam spoke by telephone to an executive from Vitafoam. Schneider worked at Future Foam headquarters. Schneider called to inform Vitafoam that Future, Foamex and Flexible intended to increase the price of foam by 20% in the next weeks.

105. On another call, Schneider again discussed price increases by the Defendants with the President of Vitafoam. Schneider stated: "Now it's looking it's all everything is postponed to May 31st or June 1st. There is a letter out from Carpenter for 31st of May. This is a letter out from Flexible for June 1st. Foamex sent a letter two weeks ago at 15% but it looks like now that the increase is going to be 10 and 12% on foam." The Vitafoam President asked: "Are you hearing anything from the other guys? Or is it just kinda market stuff?" Schneider responded: "Oh, from the other, the other people the foamers? Yeah, we are hearing 10-12... It's kinda what we hear from other people what they expect. Ya know, it would have been great to get 20% but I don't think so." The conversation concluded with a request for information from Schneider. "If you hear anything from your friends in Europe. What's going on over there, I sure would like to know that as well."

106. On June 10, 2010, Bruce Schneider of Future Foam left a voice mail message for the current President of Vitafoam. In this message, Schneider stated, "Hi [President], this is Bruce Schneider... If you want to give me a call I've got information of why the increase changed from 10 to 12 to 9."

107. On May 20, 2010, John Howard, President of Domfoam, called the current Vitafoam Vice President twice to voice complaints about a Vitafoam salesman, Normand Widmer, attempting to acquire Domfoam customers. During the call, Howard stated:

"Your fellow in Montreal here has been out, has his salesman Claude Robinson out knocking on doors they've never knocked on before, selling at or quoting at low low prices. If he wants a battle, I'll give him a battle... These guys have been in at accounts they've never sold at... if he wants a battle, he's got one. We will start going after his accounts and it won't be pretty. We'll both end up hurting... I'm pissed off and our sales guys are pissed off and they're saying 'John, are you going to do something about this, or are you just going to let this guy keep quoting low prices and taking business away from us. So. I'll let the dogs loose or I don't let the dogs loose. Want to mill it over and give me a shout back?'"

The Vice President of Vitafoam responded:

"It's sort of a bad time for me right now."

Howard then stated:

"I don't expect an answer right now but, I'm leaving tomorrow night for a week. I would like to at least give the guys some indication that, 'Guys, give me another week. I think the dust is going to settle.' Or, 'Guys just do what you have to do. Go follow their delivery trucks and find out who the customers are and start knocking on doors and do whatever the hell you have to do. We have to respond.' So you're in a spot, I don't expect you to answer right now, but can you give me a shout back tomorrow?"

108. On May 25, 2010, the Vice President of Vitafoam called Howard back. During the call, Howard stated:

"Just, you know we've kind of stayed out of each other's way for some time here while business is quiet. There's just no business to be had and dropping prices is only going to benefit the customers. I can't afford to have him take stuff away... It'll be a rough go if he wants to go and quote prices in places where he's not currently selling... Tell Normand it's a, I mean we just don't even know who your accounts are. Basically we've just never interfered, but, if he's going to go selling to guys quoting prices at guys where he doesn't currently sell, we're going to go after his accounts. So, business decision, you know, whatever way the chips fall, that's the way they're going to fall, and life will go on. But the buyers are asking me, you know, 'John, you're always telling us to stay away.' We do the same thing with Foamex, we don't go after their accounts. Haven't for a while business has been in the shitter. Just kind of stayed away and they've stayed away from our accounts too, so prices have been fairly stable. There ain't much business out there and dropping prices and only the customers are going to benefit. But let him make his decision and if it's to continue going after them then tell him there'll be some consequences. That's it. I'm not gonna, no threats but I can't not do anything. The sales guys are getting kind of... 'Hey, John, you're telling us don't go here, don't go there, don't sell that one, don't go quote prices there.' You know, eventually they're going to think I got no nuts, so sooner or later I've got to tell them 'Guys, just go and do what you got to do.' ...Keep an eye on this guy, it's ah, he needs coaching, there you go."

109. On May 25, 2010, Howard also left a voicemail message for the Vice President of Vitafoam:

"Hi, it's John...we never really did resolve anything, I guess I did most of the talking...where do we leave this thing, vis-à-vis going after each other's accounts. I'd be quite happy just to let it settle right here and not do anything more. But if [the President of Vitafoam] got some real pressure on this fellow Widmer and he's going to continue to go after accounts that he currently doesn't sell, then I got to, I can't continue to hold our sales guys off. So, give it some thought and maybe over the next day or two, just give me a shout and let me know. I understand you can't override [President of Vitafoam], but I can't just hold our guys at bay and tell them, 'Well, don't do anything guys,' That's not a winning strategy for us either. So, give me a call in the next day or two would you? And let me know what course of action Widmer's going to take here."

110. On June 2, 2010, two executives of Vitafoam spoke concerning a price increase announcement. One of the Vitafoam executives explained it was important to talk to Raj Mehta of CrestFoam about the price increase announcement.

111. On June 4, 2010, Tim Prescott of Vitafoam left a voice mail message for Vitafoam's Vice President:

"Hey, it's Tim...Can you give me a call when you get a chance. I don't know whether you've spoken to [President] but I had a message earlier from Dale over at Carpenter and when I called him back he was asking what we're going with the increase and he just called me again asking can VPS please call John Howard over at Domfoam."

112. On June 3, 2010, Dean Brayianis of Valle called Steve Prescott of Vitafoam:

Brayianis: "I sent you a text regarding price increase letters. I'm assuming you've got most of the ones that you wanted to see."

Prescott: "I didn't see, I had the old boy had faxed me one from a couple of days ago... Yah, okay, no problem, Yah, I guess, like that's, you know, it's game on again, isn't it."

Brayianis: "Ah, we'll see what happens. I've got Carpenter, Flexible, Mohawk, Leggett."

Prescott: "But it's warranted, you know what I mean. Like, we know the prices of raw material have been going up, so ah."

Brayianis: "Well, you know, I guess what we've gotta see is have another one right behind this one, hopefully the first one will stick right but I guess we will see what our friends at Carpenter will do."

Prescott: "Yah, yah. Well, yah, like I say it's it's game on. So I would imagine that most manufacturers will move forward with it. We will have to see whether they, whether they do or not and see how that goes."

Brayianis: "Yah, yah. Alright. Well our letter is out so hopefully I'm assuming you've probably put something out by now."

Prescott: "It's as good as done."

Brayianis: "Okay. Well we're already out, so we've already put our letter out."

113. On June 9, 2010, Brayianis called Prescott twice, leaving a voice mail message first, then called again to further discuss the price increase.

Brayianis: "Still haven't seen or heard of your increase letter yet."

Prescott: "Well, have a look around."

Brayiannis: “I have. Haven’t found anything yet...I’ve still got one guy telling me that you haven’t issued a letter. So have you issued? Yes or no?”

Prescott: “People will lie to you, Dean.”

Brayiannis: “Are you around the same time frame as us? July 5th or what?”

Prescott: “Ah, yah, close.”

Brayiannis: “Okay. And you haven’t seen what, sorry? You haven’t seen other increase letters or did you get all of those?”

Prescott: “Well, I know, I know that, know Stan, Stan said that he’d seen the Mohawk one and...I guess one of the other U.S. guys. You know, everyone waits for the leader and once the leader goes out then everyone else follows cause we all know that the prices of material have gone up so, you know what I mean?”

Brayiannis: “Well at the end of the day over the last two increases we have chatted about it so just wanna make sure you got your letter out.”

Prescott: “Yah. Okay pal.”

114. On May 25, 2010, Vitafoam received a call from Michel Legendre of Carpenter, who informed Vitafoam that Carpenter would be raising its prices on June 28, 2010. Six days later, on May 31, 2010, Legendre again called Vitafoam and told them that Carpenter would be raising prices by 11%. The following day, Carpenter provided Vitafoam with a copy of the letter it sent to its customers, which included the dates and amounts of the price increases.

115. After Vitafoam raised its own prices, Legendre once again contacted the company, this time on June 15, 2010. He spoke with the Vitafoam Vice President and asked whether Vitafoam was “ready for round 2?” Legendre informed the Vice President that Carpenter was preparing to send a letter the following day with a 12% price increase, effective July 19, 2010. He also confirmed that manufacturers in “the States were similarly raising prices.”

116. Once the two men finished discussing the details of the second price increase, they then turned to a discussion of whether they should be speaking at all:

Legendre: “Hey let me ask you something. That new boss of yours, you’ve got a guy there apparently I heard doesn’t want us to communicate. Is that correct?”

Vitafoam: “Ahhh...yah, that’s that’s true. That’s ah very true actually.”

Legendre: “Mine...[As you know] mine are the same right.”

Vitafoam: “Oh I understand.”

Legendre: “But I heard that jeez, the same thing I guess this guy you’ve got, I forget his name now, said the same thing he doesn’t want nobody to talk and I’m like holy [expletive] ok here we go.”

Vitafoam: “Yah. Well, you know, that’s, that’s, that’s, that’s policy so...”

Legendre: “Yah”

Vitafoam: “That’s...it’s corporate stuff right.”

Legendre: “Ok. You know, I’m actually waiting for a third one [price increase]. I think it is going to be a repeat of, what is it, last year or the year before, I don’t know.”

Vitafoam: “It was about three years ago. We didn’t go up enough last year. The prices have been, the prices have been pretty low for a bit.”

Legendre: “Yah, you know what they’ve actually been too low really.”

Vitafoam: “Sorry?”

Legendre: “They’ve actually been too low.”

117. On May 27, 2010, Lee Lunsford of Hickory Springs called the Vitafoam President and inquired whether Vitafoam was raising prices. When the Vitafoam President expressed hesitation about doing so, Lunsford noted that there was “no volume anywhere” and “there is twice as much capacity as demand.”

118. Despite this acknowledgment, on June 3, 2010, Lunsford again called Vitafoam, this time speaking with the current Vitafoam Vice President. In their conversation, the Vice President informed Lunsford that Vitafoam was raising its prices at the end of the month. Lunsford inquired how much and, when told it would be by approximately 12%, agreed that this was an acceptable number to Hickory Springs.

119. The Defendants also exchanged emails in furtherance of the conspiracy to fix prices for flexible polyurethane foam:

a. In June of 2000, the Vitafoam Vice President – who was an employee at Woodbridge at the time – sent an email to a Vitafoam salesperson asking whether he spoke to Don Phillips of Foamex to which the salesperson responded “Yes, we told him we are going out with our letters 12% effective July 30th; he said we would follow.”

b. During October and November 2004, the Vitafoam Vice President reported to his supervisor at Woodbridge by email that he had discussions with Bill Lucas, acting for Vitafoam and Crest, which resulted in an agreement for a foam price increase effective January 1, 2005.

c. On October 21, 2004, the Vitafoam Vice President sent an email to his supervisor at Woodbridge where he said: “Lucas and I are talking about our favorite subject. Jan. 1 as a possible date.”

d. On November 2, 2004, the Vitafoam Vice President sent an email to his supervisor at Woodbridge and other superiors at Woodbridge saying that he “Met with Lucas at PFA” and that Lucas was “most interested in their auto increases. They will announce for Jan. 1. They would go +20%.”

e. On March 9, 2005, the Vitafoam Vice President sent an email to his supervisor at Woodbridge with the subject header “Spoke to Lucas.” The email stated “They are going to market probably next week. Looking for a Jan. 1 effective date. Were going at 18%. I said we would most likely be closer to 15%.” He reported that he “has not heard from Foamex” and “is going to try to call them again to see what number they will go with.”

f. On March 9, 2005, the Vitafoam Vice President sent an email to his supervisor at Woodbridge regarding another call with Bill Lucas, representing Vitafoam and Crest. “Spoke with Lucas again last week. We are trying to meeting in Chattanooga.” He also wrote: “We use the schedule[d] discussions to lead into the real reasons for the calls. Said that they were successful at the mills, in Furniture – they were still one [price increase] behind.” The email continued: “I let him know we were going March 15th in Detroit [automotive sector]. He said they would probably wait until May 1. Would have liked a more coordinated push.”

g. On May 5, 2005, the Vitafoam Vice President while he an employee at Woodbridge emailed that he spoke with Bill Lucas of Vitafoam and Raj Mehta, the General Manager of Crest, regarding price increases for May 2005. This relationship between Woodbridge, Crest, and Vitafoam continued for years. In a June 2, 2010 conversation between the Vitafoam Vice President and the current President, they discussed Mr. Mehta again and information to pass to him in furtherance of the conspiracy.

h. On September 14, 2005, the head of a competitor company wrote to a Vitafoam executive and stated “In separate conversation, I talked to Lucas. They are out with 11% on blocks nothing on Auto.” He asked the Vitafoam executive to have one of his employees “call Buster [Mann at Hickory Springs] today.” After placing the call to Mann, the Vitafoam employee wrote “I called Buster yesterday. We spoke about the bedding stuff. It is at numbers we are not used to.”

i. On May 22, 2008, Nikki Walborn at Scottdel sent an email with an attachment of a draft Scottdel fuel surcharge and price increase letter to a number of Scottdel employees, including Louie Carson and Jeff Carter. (Within a year of this email, Jeff Carter went from Scottdel to Future Foam in Texas.) On May 29, 2008, Jeff Carter forwarded this email and price increase letter to David Gurley at Vitafoam, and Gurley then forwarded the email and price increase letter to his superior at Vitafoam, the current President.

j. On July 7, 2008, Jeff Carter, while still at Scottdel, forwarded via email a draft price increase letter to David Gurley of Vitafoam, stating, “David, Here is a copy of our next increase letter. Jeff.” Gurley forwarded this email and draft increase letter to the company President. The President forwarded this string of emails and draft increase letter to his subordinates at Vitafoam, the Vice President of Sales & Marketing, and Steve Prescott.

k. On July 9, 2008, Steve Prescott forwarded the email string and letter to Stan Miller of Vitafoam, with the message, “Hey pal you thought the first one was tough! Check with your Carpenter contact to see when they plan on pulling the trigger.”

l. On July 11, 2008, Stan Miller reported back to Prescott via email, stating:

“Steve, I talked to Carpenter and he says that he has found his info. That Mohawk has gone up the 12 points on business other than the EOR orders from the show. He said they went up the full 12% in Vancouver and they have gotten some for the business back. He had not heard of Scottdale [sic] increase but had been told that there was a good chance they would be going up. I just talked to Randy from Shnier and he said from the pricing his sales people have found that Mohawk has not gone up. Carmine has been after him for copies of their pricing but he can’t get his hands on it. He told me they lost an order to Mohawk in Calgary for Carpet Supermarket and that is where Ben Flagel is now.” Prescott asked in an email to Miller “Will Ben share info?" Miller shortly thereafter on the same day responds to Prescott via email, stating, "Dan from Carpenter just called and said they will be going up 13% on Aug. 11/08."

m. On May 21, 2009, Steve Prescott of Vitafoam sent draft price increase letters to other Vitafoam employees. One of the recipients, David Gurley of Vitafoam, forwarded those price increase letters to Jeff Carter of Future Foam in Texas. Jeff Carter then forwarded this email to David Carson and Louie Carson of Scottdel stating: "Louie and David, You probably have seen all these. It's crazy out there again, personally I don't think this is enough of an increase."

n. Letters announcing a May 2009 increase from Flexible Foam dated April 7, 2009, from Mohawk dated April 10, 2009, from Carpenter dated April 13, 2009, from Vita Canada dated April 14, 2009, from Leggett & Platt dated April 15, 2009, and Future Foam dated April 16, 2009 were all present in Vitafoam files. Following that price increase, there was another price increase in June 2009. Price increase letters from Mohawk, Flexible Foam, Carpenter and Future Foam all dated May 18, 2009, and from Leggett & Platt and Vita Canada dated May 19, 2009 were also present in Vitafoam files.

o. Louie Carson responded to Carter thanking Carter for the information. Carter forwarded his string of emails with Louie Carson back to David Gurley at Vitafoam. Gurley forwarded the string to his superiors at Vitafoam, the Vice President of Sales & Marketing and President, with the message: "Please keep this confidential and read from the bottom up. It was sent to my friend Jeff Carter @Future Foam in Texas and talks about Vita and Ohio Valley. Louie Carson is one of the owners of Scottdel."

6) Defendants kept the conspiracy secret

120. As described in this Consolidated Amended Complaint, the Vitafoam employees discussed herein and other participants in the conspiracy took numerous steps to avoid detection of their conspiracy. At times, full names would not be used in correspondence and instead participants would only use first names or initials.

121. Conspirators took advantage of attending trade association meetings along with their competitors and met to discuss coordinating price increases outside of the formal meetings. During the Class Period, representatives of Defendants regularly met through such organizations as the PFA, International Sleep Products Association (“ISPA”), and Surfaces, a trade group that includes polyurethane carpet underlay producers.

122. Representatives of Defendants claimed these trade association meetings were nothing more than “meet-and-greet” sessions with their competitors.

123. Representatives of Defendants disguised their attendance at these events as information gathering, but in fact used them as an opportunity to fix prices and divvy up their customers.

124. Representatives of Defendants had no genuine intention of learning about the market at these meetings. Defendants essentially controlled the market, and attended these meetings to further ensure and perpetuate their control.

125. Defendants also visited each other’s manufacturing facilities for the purported purpose of sharing technological and operational advances, but were actually using the opportunity to discuss coordinated price increases. Defendants’ employees also would avoid detection by communicating through fax machines at a local Staples or other store, so that the identification of the sender would be hidden on the fax transmittal.

126. With the exception of Vitafoam, which sought leniency from the DOJ (see allegations supra) and Scottdel which recently went into liquidation (see paragraph 41, supra), there is no indication that any of the other Defendants have taken affirmative action to leave the conspiracy.

B. Market Factors Support The Existence Of The Conspiracy

127. Various market factors made the market for flexible polyurethane foam highly susceptible to anticompetitive practices and unlawful collusion, which allowed Defendants to implement their anticompetitive conspiracy.

1) Limited Competition

128. As a result of flexible polyurethane foam's manufacturing and product characteristics, importation into the United States from outside North America is neither practical nor economical. Consequently, the vast majority of flexible polyurethane foam sold in the United States comes from North America or a company with a United States-based subsidiary. Defendants—all of whom are based in the North America or have United States based subsidiaries or affiliates—collectively represent the majority of flexible polyurethane foam manufacturers.

129. In addition, the industry has been consolidating rather than attracting new entrants. Major players within this industry have been active in acquiring smaller companies and other competitors over the course of the last ten years. For example:

- a. In 2007, Defendant Carpenter acquired its European competitor Dumo NV.
- b. In 2006, following the purchase of its parent corporation, Defendant Vitafoam, Inc. sold one of its plants to Olympic Products LLC (a joint venture between Woodbridge and Hickory Springs), and sold another plant to Flexible Foam Products.

2) Inelastic demand due to lack of substitutes

130. “Elasticity” is a term used to describe the sensitivity of supply and demand to changes in one or the other. For example, demand is said to be “inelastic” if an increase in the price of a product results in only a small, decline in the quantity sold of that product, if any. In other words, customers have nowhere to turn for alternative, cheaper products of similar quality, and so continue to purchase despite a price increase.

131. For a cartel to profit from raising prices above competitive levels, demand must be relatively inelastic at competitive prices. Otherwise, increased prices would result in declining sales, revenues and profits, as customers purchased substitute products or declined to buy altogether.

132. Demand for polyurethane foam is relatively inelastic. According to the Polyurethane Foam Association, “In furniture and bedding applications, short staple polyester fiber is often used instead of [flexible polyurethane foam], as is cotton, but both alternative materials have poor height recovery characteristics after compression. Steel springs also recover well but must be insulated from the user with some type of cushioning material. Comparing [flexible polyurethane foam] to alternative materials in the areas of economics, comfort potential, ease of use, and durability, there is not an acceptable substitute.”

3) Standardized commodity product with high degree of interchangeability

133. A “commodity product” is characterized as a product that is readily interchangeable and for which competition is primarily driven by price rather than other market pressures, such as branding and marketing. The mass production and interchangeability of commodity products results not only in pressure for competitors to enter into conspiracies to fix and maintain prices, but serves as a mechanism to successfully adopt and implement such conspiracies.

134. Flexible polyurethane foam is a commodity used in hundreds of consumer products to provide comfort, support, safety and durability. Flexible polyurethane foam is interchangeable across manufacturers. The last major technological breakthroughs in the production of flexible polyurethane foam occurred in the mid-20th century, and flexible polyurethane foam is now classified as a commodity chemical product.

135. Accordingly, each Defendant has the capability to produce the same or similar flexible polyurethane foam products, and flexible polyurethane foam customers make purchase decisions based principally on price. This commoditization and interchangeability of flexible polyurethane foam facilitated Defendants' conspiracy by making coordination on price much simpler than if Defendants had numerous distinct products with varying features.

4) Opportunities To Conspire

136. Defendants are members of trade associations, including the PFA, International Sleep Products Association, Alliance of Flexible Polyurethane Foam, Carpet Cushion Council, and Surfaces. The PFA is one of the largest such trade associations, and approximately 70% of U.S. polyurethane foam manufacturers are PFA members.

137. As discussed above and below, during trade association meetings – including PFA meetings - Defendants seized opportunities to meet in person to allocate customers and coordinate price increases.

ACCRUAL OF CLAIM, CONTINUING VIOLATION, EQUITABLE TOLLING AND FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT

138. Plaintiffs did not discover and could not have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence the existence of the conspiracy alleged herein prior to disclosure in 2010 of the raids by government agencies of certain Defendants' facilities.

139. Plaintiffs believe that prior to the Class Period Defendants formulated and prepared a plan to implement a conspiracy and in furtherance of their agreements, throughout the Class Period, Defendants and their co-conspirators have committed continuing violations of the antitrust laws resulting in monetary injury to Plaintiffs and Class members. These violations each constituted injurious acts.

140. In addition, Defendants and their co-conspirators' agreement, understanding and conspiracy in violation of the antitrust laws was kept secret. As a result, Plaintiffs and members of the Class were unaware of Defendants' unlawful conduct alleged herein and did not know that they were paying artificially high prices for flexible polyurethane foam in the United States throughout the Class Period. Defendants and their co-conspirators affirmatively and fraudulently concealed their unlawful conduct.

141. Plaintiffs and the Class did not discover, nor could have discovered through reasonable diligence, that Defendants and their co-conspirators were violating the antitrust laws until shortly before this litigation was initially commenced, because Defendants and their co-conspirators used deceptive and secret methods to avoid detection and to affirmatively conceal their violations.

142. Neither Defendants nor their co-conspirators told Plaintiffs or the Class that they were fixing prices and allocating customers, or engaging in the other unlawful collusive practices alleged herein. By its very nature, Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conspiracy was inherently self-concealing.

143. Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in a successful price-fixing and customer allocation conspiracy, which they affirmatively concealed:

- a. by meeting secretly (including use of private telephonic communications) to discuss prices, customers, and markets of polyurethane foam sold in the United States and elsewhere;

- b. by agreeing among themselves at meetings and in communications not to discuss publicly, or otherwise reveal, the nature and substance of the acts and communications in furtherance of their illegal scheme;
- c. by holding secret meetings outside and separate from the formal trade association meetings Defendants were publicly attending; and
- d. by disguising price-fixing meetings and communications as technical and operational meetings.

ANTITRUST INJURY

144. The unlawful contract, combination and/or conspiracy alleged above had and is having, inter alia, the following effects:

- a. Prices charged by Defendants and their co-conspirators to suppliers to Plaintiffs and the Class for polyurethane foam products were maintained at artificially high and supra-competitive levels;
- b. Plaintiffs and the Class were required to pay more for products manufactured with polyurethane foam than they would have paid in a competitive marketplace unfettered by Defendants' and their co-conspirators' collusive and unlawful price-fixing; and
- c. Plaintiffs and the Class have been deprived of the benefits of free, open and unrestricted competition in the market for polyurethane foam.

145. During and throughout the period of the contract, combination or conspiracy alleged above, Plaintiffs and the Class indirectly purchased polyurethane foam from Defendants in the United States.

146. Plaintiffs and the Class paid more for the products utilizing polyurethane foam than they would have paid under conditions of free and open competition.

147. As a direct and proximate result of the illegal combination, contract or conspiracy alleged above, Plaintiffs and the Class were injured and financially damaged in their businesses and property, in amounts that are not presently determined.

CLASS ACTION ALLEGATIONS

148. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

149. Plaintiffs bring this action on their own behalf and as a class action pursuant to Rules 23(b)(2) for injunctive relief and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure and/or respective state statute(s), on behalf of all members of the following class (the “Class”) with respect to claims under the antitrust and/or consumer protection statutes of each of the below jurisdictions and under common law principles of unjust enrichment recognized in each of those jurisdictions:

All persons or entities in Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, District of Columbia, Florida, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Oregon, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin who purchased products containing flexible polyurethane foam, not for resale, which were manufactured, produced or supplied by Defendants or their unnamed co-conspirators from January 1, 1999 to the present. Excluded from the Class are governmental entities, Defendants, their co-conspirators and their representatives, parents, subsidiaries and affiliates.

150. The precise number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiffs. However, due to the nature of the trade and commerce involved, Plaintiffs reasonably believe, and thereon allege, that the Class numbers in the thousands who are geographically across the country and throughout the states for which claims are asserted, such that joinder is impractical.

151. There are questions of law and fact common to the Class. The antitrust, consumer protection and unjust enrichment statutes and laws of the Class jurisdictions are similar and require proof of the same elements. These common elements relate to the existence of the conspiracy alleged, the enrichment obtained by Defendants, and the type and common pattern of injury sustained as a result thereof. The questions include, but are not limited to:

- a. Whether Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in a combination and conspiracy among themselves to fix, raise, maintain and/or stabilize the price charged for flexible polyurethane foam sold in the United States and in particular, those states for which antitrust, consumer protection and unjust enrichment claims are asserted;
- b. The identity of participants in the conspiracy;
- c. The duration of the conspiracy alleged in this Complaint and the nature and character of the acts performed by Defendants and their co-conspirators in the furtherance of the conspiracy;
- d. Whether Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conduct, as alleged in this Complaint, caused injury to the business and property of Plaintiffs and the Class;
- e. Whether the Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conduct, as alleged in this Complaint, unjustly enriched Defendants;
- f. The appropriate nature of class-wide equitable relief;
- g. The effect of Defendants' conspiracy on the prices of flexible polyurethane foam in the United States and in the states for which claims are asserted on behalf of the Class during the Class Period; and
- h. The appropriate measure of damages sustained by Plaintiffs and the Class.

152. Plaintiffs are members of the Class. Plaintiffs' claims are typical of the claims of other members of the Class, and Plaintiffs will fairly and adequately protect the interests of the members of the Class. Plaintiffs bought products containing or made of flexible polyurethane foam that was produced, manufactured or supplied by one or more of the Defendants. Plaintiffs' interests are aligned with, and not antagonistic to, those of the other members of the Class. In addition, Plaintiffs are represented by competent counsel experienced in the prosecution of class action antitrust litigation.

153. The questions of law and fact common to the members of the Class predominate over any questions affecting only individual members, including legal and factual issues relating to liability and damages.

154. Class action treatment is a superior method for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy because:

- a. It will avoid a multiplicity of suits and consequent burden on the courts and Defendants;
- b. It would be virtually impossible for all members of the Class to intervene as parties-plaintiff in this action;
- c. It will allow numerous individuals with claims too small to adjudicate on an individual basis because of the prohibitive cost of this litigation, to obtain redress for their economic injuries;
- d. The prosecution of separate actions by individual Class members would create the risk of inconsistent or varying adjudications, establishing incompatible standards of conduct for Defendants; and
- e. It will provide court oversight of the claims process, once Defendants' liability is adjudicated.

155. This class action presents no difficulties of management that would preclude its maintenance as a class action.

INTERSTATE TRADE AND COMMERCE

156. The Defendants' and their co-conspirators' conduct has taken place in, and affected the continuous flow of interstate trade and commerce of the United States, in that, inter alia:

- a. Defendants and their co-conspirators have sold flexible polyurethane indirectly throughout the United States, including those states for which claims for state antitrust, consumer protection laws and unjust enrichment are asserted;

b. Defendants and their co-conspirators have each used instrumentalities of interstate commerce to sell polyurethane foam throughout the United States;

c. In furtherance of the conspiracy alleged herein, Defendants have traveled between states and have exchanged communications through interstate wire communications and via U.S. mail; and

d. The conspiracy alleged herein has affected billions of dollars of commerce. Defendants and their co-conspirators have inflicted antitrust injury by artificially raising prices paid by Plaintiffs and other entities who are themselves engaged in commerce.

FIRST CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Violation of the Clayton Act)

157. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

158. Beginning at a time presently unknown to Plaintiffs, but at least as early as 1999 and continuing through the present, Defendants and their co-conspirators entered into a continuing agreement, understanding, and conspiracy in restraint of trade in violations of Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 15 and Section 1 of the Sherman Act, 15 U.S.C. § 1.

159. In furtherance of the unlawful conspiracy, each of the Defendants and their co-conspirators has committed overt acts, including, inter alia:

- a. agreeing to charge prices at certain levels and otherwise to fix, increase, maintain and/or stabilize prices of polyurethane foam sold in the United States, and in those States in which State claims are asserted;
- b. participating in meetings, conversations, and communications with coconspirators regarding prices to be charged for polyurethane foam;

- c. agreeing to allocate customers;
- d. meeting with co-conspirators in order to keep the existence of the conspiracy unknown as to foster the illegal anti-competitive conduct described herein; and
- e. refraining from competing by refusing to offer polyurethane foam at prices below the agreed-upon fixed price.

160. The combination and conspiracy alleged herein has had the following effects, among others:

- a. Price competition in the sale of polyurethane foam has been restrained, suppressed, and/or eliminated;
- b. Prices for polyurethane foam sold by Defendants and their co-conspirators have been fixed, raised, maintained and stabilized at artificially high, non-competitive levels; and
- c. Those who purchased polyurethane foam indirectly from Defendants and their co-conspirators have been deprived of the benefits of free and open competition.

161. Defendants and their co-conspirators engaged in the activities described above for the purpose of effectuating unlawful arrangements to fix, maintain, raise and/or stabilize prices of polyurethane foam.

162. As a direct and proximate result of Defendants' illegal agreement, contract, combination trust and/or conspiracy, Plaintiffs and the members of the Class have been injured and damaged in their respective businesses and property according to proof and will continue to be damaged as long as Defendants' actions continue, and are accordingly entitled to injunctive relief pursuant to Section 16 of the Clayton Act, 15 U.S.C. § 26.

SECOND CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Violation of State Antitrust Statutes)

163. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

164. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Arizona Revised Stat. §§44-1401 et seq.

165. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of California Bus. & Prof. Code §§16700 et seq. and Cal. Bus. & Prof. Code §§17200 et seq.

166. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of District of Columbia Code Ann. §§28-4502 et seq.

167. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Hawaii's Rev. Stat. § 480-3 et. seq.

168. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Illinois Antitrust Code, 740 Ill. Comp. Stat. 10/7 (2).

169. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Iowa Code §§553.1 et seq.

170. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Kansas Stat. Ann. §§50-101 et seq.

171. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Maine Rev. Stat. Ann. 10, §§1101 et seq.

172. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Michigan Comp. Laws Ann. §§445.772 et seq.

173. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Minnesota Stat. §§325D.51 et seq.

174. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Mississippi Antitrust Act, Miss. Stat. § 75-21-1, et. seq.

175. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Nebraska Rev. Stat. §§59-801 et seq.

176. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Nevada Rev. Stat. Ann. §§598A et seq.

177. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of New Mexico Stat. Ann. §§57-1-1 et seq.

178. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of New York General Business Law §§ 340 et seq.

179. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. §§75-1 et seq.

181. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Oregon Antitrust Act, Ore. Rev. Stat. §§ 646.725, et.seq.

182. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of South Dakota Codified Laws Ann. §§37-1 et seq.

183. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Tennessee Code Ann. §§47-25-101 et seq.

184. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Vermont Stat. Ann. 9 §§2453 et seq.

185. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of West Virginia Code §§47-18-1 et seq.

186. By reason of the foregoing, Defendants have entered into agreements in restraint of trade in violation of Wisconsin Stat. § § 133.01 et seq.

THIRD CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Violation of State Consumer Protection and Unfair Competition Laws)

187. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Complaint.

188. Defendants engaged in unfair competition or unfair, unconscionable, deceptive or fraudulent acts or practices in violation of the state consumer protection and unfair competition statutes listed below.

189. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of California Bus. & Prof. Code § 17200 et seq.

190. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Colorado's Consumer Protection Act, Colo. Rev. Stat. § 6-1-101 et. seq.

191. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of District of Columbia Code §28-3901 et seq.

192. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Florida Stat. §501.201 et seq.

193. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Massachusetts Gen. Laws Ann. Ch. 93A et. seq.

194. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Missouri Merchandising Practices Act §407.010 et seq. for goods purchased primarily for personal or family or household purposes.

195. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Nebraska Rev. Stat. §59-1601 et seq.

196. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of New Hampshire Stat. New Hampshire Rev. Stat. §358-A:2 et seq.

197. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of New Mexico Stat. §57-12-1 et seq.

198. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of New York Gen Bus. Law §349 et seq.

199. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts of or practices in violation of North Carolina Gen. Stat. §75-1.1 et seq.

200. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Oregon Rev. Stat. §646.605 et seq.

201. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of Rhode Island Gen. Laws §6-13.1-1 et seq. for goods purchased primarily for personal or family or household purposes.

202. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of 9 Vermont §2451 et seq.

203. Defendants have engaged in unfair competition or unfair or deceptive acts or practices in violation of West Virginia Code §46A-6-101 et seq.

FOURTH CLAIM FOR RELIEF

(Unjust Enrichment and Disgorgement of Profits)

204. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference as if fully set forth herein the allegations contained in the preceding paragraphs of this Consolidated Amended Complaint.

205. By paying more for products containing flexible polyurethane foam than they would have in the absence of Defendants' wrongful conduct, Plaintiffs and the Class have conferred a benefit on Defendants.

206. As a result of Defendants' wrongful conduct, Defendants were able to charge more for flexible polyurethane foam which overpayments were made by Plaintiffs and the Class.

207. Defendants have been unjustly enriched by Plaintiffs' and the Class' overpayments. Equity demands that Defendants be required to make restitution and return the overpayment to Plaintiffs and the Class.

208. Plaintiffs and members of the Class seek disgorgement of all profits resulting from such overpayments and establishment of a constructive trust from which Plaintiffs and Class members may seek restitution.

209. The unjust enrichment claims under the following state laws are retained in order to preserve them for appeal: Alabama, Arizona, California, Colorado, District of Columbia, Florida, Hawaii, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Nebraska, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Mexico, New York, North Dakota, South Dakota, Tennessee, Utah, Vermont, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

PETITION FOR RELIEF

WHEREFORE, Plaintiff respectfully pray that the Court enter judgment as follows:

- A. Determining that this action may be maintained as a class action under Rule 23 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure;
- B. Enjoining Defendants from continuing to implement their unlawful agreement and ordering Defendants to take such actions necessary to remediate the market condition that Defendants created which would allow them to maintain, or continue to increase, prices above competitive levels;
- C. Awarding Plaintiffs and the relevant Class Members compensatory damages under the state statutes in an amount to be proven at trial, multiple damages under the state statutes in an amount to be proven at trial, multiple damages according to law against Defendants, jointly and severally;

- D. Awarding Plaintiffs and the relevant Class Members punitive, exemplary, statutory, and full consideration damages under the aforementioned state laws;
- E. Awarding Plaintiffs and the Class pre-judgment and post-judgment interest;
- F. Awarding Plaintiffs and the Class their costs of suit, including reasonable attorneys' fees; and
- G. Granting Plaintiffs and the Class such other and further relief as the Court deems just and proper.

JURY DEMAND

Plaintiffs hereby demand a trial by jury, pursuant to Rule 38(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure, of all issues so triable in this case.
